Consumer Legislation

Topic Objective:

To understand that, from the consumer's point, the implications of consumer rights legislation to consumers and manufacturers.

This topic develops knowledge and understanding about the Consumer Rights Act (2015) and the Sale of Goods Act (1979)

Now Test Yourself…

1. What is the Consumer Rights Act (2015)?

   The consumer rights act of 2015 replaces the Sale of Goods Act from 1979, now also including the sale of Digital content. It is legislation that protects consumers from faulty products by providing them with certain rights. These include the right for a refund/replacement/repair if the product is not satisfactory to the consumer's expectations or product's description. This includes free/paid digital content as well as the trade of goods.
2. Under the Consumer Rights Act (2015), list two expectations a consumer is entitled to have when buying a product.

   The goods should match the description at sale. Digital content should be fit for its purpose
3. Under the Consumer Rights Act (2015) and the Sale of Goods Act (1979), what right does a consumer have if they buy a product which is NOT as described?

   They are entitled to a refund, replacement or repair of the product
4. What is the Sale of Goods Act (1979)?

   The Sale of Goods Act (1979) is the primary piece of legislation regulating the selling and buying of goods.